LOSES 5 HORSES, 2 MULES IN FIRE

Peter Shetter, Biglerville, Sees Barn Aglow From Bed Room Window.

ESTIMATE LOSS AT $2,000

Fire Gains Considerable Headway and Efforts of Fire Company Are Directed Toward Adjacent Properties.

Five horses and two mules perished in a fire which destroyed the frame barn at the rear of the property of Peter Shetter, East York street, Biglerville, on Tuesday evening, causing a loss estimated at $2,200, partially covered by insurance.

Two buggies, a sleigh and a large quantity of straw and fodder in and around the barn were also consumed by the flames.

Mr. Shetter had retired for the night when between 8:30 and 8:45 o'clock he noticed a red glow at the barn and upon an investigation found the structure in flames. Apparently, the blaze had gained considerable headway.

A call was sent for the Biglerville Fire Company, which responded, but found that the fire had gained such headway that it was impossible to save the structure and efforts were directed to prevent the spread of the flames to adjacent buildings. The buildings of John Brame, who resides nearby, were threatened, but the heavy rain falling at the time aided materially in controlling the spread of the flames.

According to Mr. Shetter, the fire started in some corn fodder stacked against the outside of the building just a few hours before the fire was discovered. Through a broken window pane, the flames leaped into the hay in the stable inside and mushroomed through the interior of the structure before breaking out.

The barn, measuring 30 by 40 feet, was completely leveled by the blaze, which was not completely extinguished until 11:30 o'clock.

For years, Mr. Shetter has conducted a sales and exchange stable and the horses and mules were used in his business. They constituted all the livestock in the building at the time of the fire. The barn was valued at about $1,300 and the contents, including the stock, at about $900.

CORONER SERVES WRIT ON DEPUTY SHERIFF

Sheriff John W. Hartman, However, is At Deer Camp, But Rule Will be Served There.

The rule issued by President Judge D. P. McPherson on Sheriff John W. Hartman and his father and deputy, Howard J. Hartman, to show cause why they should be adjudged in contempt of court, was served on the latter on Tuesday by Dr. C. G. Crist, Chambersburg street, Adams county coroner, who was directed to serve the writ by the Court.

When Coroner Crist made service of the writ on Deputy Sheriff Hartman the latter had little to say, according to the server.

Sheriff Hartman is at a deer camp in the South Mountains and is not expected home for several days. Coroner Crist, however, said he would not wait for the Sheriff to return to Gettysburg, but would serve the writ on him at the hunting camp.

Deer Are More Scrawny Than Usual This Year

DEER HUNTER USES A BOW AND ARROW

Gettysburg deer hunters, returning from the South Mountain section, report coming across a man who gave them a practical glimpse of the hunter primeval.

Fitted out in the togs of the Daniel Boone age of American pioneering, he carried a bow and arrow that would have been the envy of the Indians.

While he declined to give his name, he said he was from Harrisburg and that he preferred the bow and arrow to the more modern equipment of shotgun or rifle to wing the fleet-footed buck. He has seldom gone home empty handed in recent years and he has never used anything except the bow and arrow, he said.

He has been known to have killed a couple of bear in Potter county with the antiquated weapon in recent years. He had not bagged a deer up until noon Wednesday, but expressed confidence that he would get his.

Most of Those Being Killed Are Extremely Young With Antlers Barely Visible.

MANY ARE CRIPPLED

One Man Finds Doe With Both Legs Shot Off; Adams Hunters Continue to "Bring Home the Bacon."

Deer are more "peekid" and scrawny this year than usual, due, it is believed, to their increasing numbers and their difficulty to find the sort of food on which they thrive, according to reports brought to Gettysburg from the hunting camps in the South Mountain.

The killings this year have been a great deal larger so far than usual, but most of those brought down have been unusually young, their antlers being hardly more than visible and not much thicker than the average sized lead pencil.

There are more crippled deer in the South Mountain section of Adams county this year than for a number of years, Game Protector Leo Bushman reports. A number of hunters, he said, had killed wounded does and young bucks to put them out of their misery and reported the kills to him.

That does were killed in larger numbers Saturday than on any previous opening day in recent years is the charge made by some of the hunters, who believe greater care should be taken in hunting. One hunter reported three does killed in an orchard near Ledy's station, while several others were reported wounded and maimed in the neighborhood. It was said that the does had legs shot off and that one man had killed a doe that he found with both legs shot off.

Those who are back of the movement to protect does are investigating these cases, and if found to be correct will push prosecutions in every instance.

Hunting with Green Run Camp, No. 2, on Green Ridge, west of Orrtanna, Paul Hammer, of Stewartstown, York county shot an 8-point buck, while Harry Diehl, of Mt. Wolf, York county, killed a spike buck. George Hunter, of Gettysburg, is a member of this camp.

Luther Deardorff, of Mummasburg, shot a four-point deer last Saturday.

Charles Woodward, son of George Woodward, of Buchanan Valley, killed a four-prong buck, as did his father. Both were fine specimens, they report, and weighed 140 and 150 pounds each. Charles, who is a resident of Waynesboro, comes home every season to hunt deer and both father and son usually are sucessful. Two other sons of Mr. Woodward are on the hunt.

Another father and son hunting combination succeeded in bagging a deer apiece. F. Mark Bream, Carlisle street, got his quarry on Monday, while his son, Clyde, brought down a buck Tuesday. Both are members of the Marsh Creek Hunting Camp, one of the oldest hunting clubs in the South Mountains.

NEW SPEED COPS TAKE TO HIGHWAY

Part of Harrisburg Detachment to Cover Adams County Territory.

By Thursday morning, the new motor patrol of the State Highway department will be actively engaged in patrolling the roads around Gettysburg. Their first beat was on the river drive between Harrisburg and Clark's Ferry bridge Monday.

Delay in delivery of the gray uniforms of the patrolmen prevented their appearance on the roads Saturday as scheduled. The uniforms arrived Sunday, and the motor police were equipped Monday morning. Shortly after noon the patrolman assigned to this territory started their first round to watch for traffic law violators.

By Thursday morning, the detachments of patrolmen assigned at the various points will have been equipped and will be placed on the roads. Members of the Harrisburg detail were sent Tuesday to attend the opening of the new Pottstown-West Chester road.

In addition to a dozen patrolmen assigned to the Harrisburg area, including Gettysburg, sixteen will be sent to Butler, sixteen to Greensburg and the remainder to Pottsville and Wyoming. From there they will spread out and cover a dozen or more stations, with overlapping territory.

Although the patrolmen have not been granted the power of arrest, it was sai at the department such power is not necessary, as the patrolmen can enforce motor laws through the threat of revocation of licenses of offenders. The law empowers the Secretary of Highways to revoke or suspend any licenses upon presentation of "proper evidence," and offenders who refuse to conform to the laws because the patrolmen cannot arrest them may lose their licenses. The patrolmen are also under orders to make information for arrest and trial of persons violating the laws, and, if such persons are convicted, their licenses must be revoked under the law.

In some counties, it was said, sheriffs may deputize the patrolmen, giving them power of arrest within the county. Department officials, however, would not say that such plans have been under consideration.

Prof. J. Guy Wolf Sets at Rest Rumors That He Has Eye on Commissioner Clerkship.

Professor J. Guy Wolf, commercial teacher at the Gettysburg High School, who, it was rumored in political circles, was being considered as a possible appointee of the new Democratic commissioners for the position of clerk, told The Times today that he is not an aspirant for the position.

"I have not been after the position," Mr. Wolf states in asking that any impression that might prevail to the effect that he is in the running be corrected.

MILK PRODUCERS VETO INCREASED DEDUCTION

Representatives Of Four Local Branches at Annual State Convention.

County Farm Agent R. E. Underwood and representatives of the local branches of the Pennsylvania Interstate Milk Producers' Association have returned from Philadelphia where they attended the annual convention of that organization on Monday and Tuesday. Milk producers from all parts of Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and New Jersey were at the convention.

A motion to increase the fee from 2 to 5 cents a gallon, which was to be collected for the National Dairy Council, check testing and advertising, was voted down. The convention, however, adopted motion containing barn regulations, which, although not compulsory, can easily be put into operation by the individual milk producers.

On Monday night the local delegates attended a banquet at the Hotel Adelphi at which there were more than 500 milk producers.

The representatives of the county locals attending the convention were John Bream, Gettysburg; N. C. Miller, New Oxford; Clarence Jacobs, York Springs, and A. B. Fromeyer, of Bonneauville.

ONE-WAY BRIDGE OVER SWIFT RUN TO BE ABOLISHED

Traffic Hazard to be Repaired and Widened, Adams County Commissioners Decide; Specifications Call For 24 Foot Roadway on New Span.

Sealed bids for widening and repairing the dangerous one-way bridge over Swift Run on the Lincoln Highway, seven miles east of Gettysburg, will be received at the office of the Adams county commissioners at 10 o'clock, December 27, and opened one hour later. Notice to contractors to this effect will be given once a week for three weeks, beginning Friday, it was learned this morning.

Announcement of the widening of the bridge over Swift Run will be met with a hearty chorus of affirmative shakes of the head from all motorists and team drivers who have occasion to use the Lincoln Highway east of Gettysburg.

Comes As Welcome News

The one-way bridge, said to be the only one of its kind between Bedford, this State, and New York City, on the Lincoln Highway, has long been known as a hazard to motorists because of its location at the foot of the steep hill just west of it.

The present structure was erected in 1906 when horse-drawn vehicle traffic was in the majority. The roadway on the bridge proper is just sixteen feet wide while the highway on both sides of the bridge is 24 feet wide, making the bridge a wasp-waisted affair.

According to the specifications for the new bridge, the roadway will have a width of 24 feet, thereby permitting two and even three cars to pass each other abreast on the structure at one time. As the bridge is now, two cars can pass on the roadway, if both drivers are exceptionally careful and drive at a snail's pace.

How many accidents have occurred on the bridge since automobiles came into popular use is not known, but it is said that more have collided there, known or unknown, than at any other brige in southeastern Pennsylvania. Recently, in four weeks, three accidents are known to have taken place on the narrow bridge.

Approach is Dangerous

Approach to the bridge in wet weather is particularly dangerous, it is pointed out, especially to motorists traveling east. The hill just west of the bridge, at the foot of which the narrow span is located, and the remainder of the Lincoln Highway at that point is of tar-bound macadam, which becomes exceedingly slippery in wet weather. Persons endeavoring to brake their cars while descending

HUNTER INJURED IN ODD MANNER

Stray Bullet Shatters Flint Stone Which Pierces His Leg.

Alden Joseph, of York New Salem, while hunting deer with a party in the South Mountain section Tuesday, was injured in an unusual manner when the gun of a companion was accidentally discharged. The ball of the charge struck a flint stone less than a foot from Joseph's leg, shattering the stone and wounding the left leg of the hunter.

What caused the weapon to go off remains a mystery. The owner of the gun was walking about four feet in the rear of Joseph. He was brought to the Annie M. Warner hospital where an X-Ray examination was made and showed several pieces of stone lodged in the leg. Late Tuesday, he was taken to the West Side Sanatorium, York, where an operation for the removal of the pieces of flint was made today.

Joseph was a member of the Baylor Gun Club of York.

Community Christmas Tree For Gettysburg is Planned; Poor Will Be Remembered

Town Will Revive Old Custom This Yuletide Season; Movement is Being Sponsored by Rotary Club and Committee to Arrange Affair Will Soon be Announced; H. E. Riddlemoser to Donate Tree.

Gettysburg is to have a Community Christmas Tree this year.

The town will revive a former pretty custom in joyous celebration together of the greatest holiday of the calendar year.

The Gettysburg Rotary Club is sponsoring the movement this year and a committee will be named within the next few days by President Samuel G. Spangler to take charge of the arrangements.

Harry E. Riddlemoser, of McKnightstown, has volunteered to furnish the tree and it will be a tree that the people can look upon with pride, he states.

The celebration planned will be similar to former years. The last Community Tree was erected in 1918. At that time, the people braved a temperature many degrees below the freezing point to gather around the tree, brightly illuminated in center square, to celebrate the glad festive season.

A. B. Plank had illuminated the tree with varied-colored electric lights very attractively and it is understood that he will be asked to assume charge of this end of the arrangements again.

Old hymns of Christmas were sung by the assemblage led by I. L. Taylor. The children of the public schools and the parochial school sang Christmas songs. A Christmas address was made by Rev. Dr. H. C. Alleman.

This year, it is planned to go a step further. Besides distributing candy to the children of the community at the tree on Christmas Eve, the poor of the community are to be remembered with baskets of foodstuffs. Further details of the plan are promised with the announcement of the committee.

In the morning at 10 o'clock, the charge to the congregation will be delivered by the Rev. George E. Bowersox, of Shrewsberry, York county, and, at 2 in the afternoon, the charge will be given to the pastor. Rev. C. E. Arnold, of York, will deliver the charge to the pastor.

On the following Sunday, December 16, at 10 o'clock, the installation exercises will take place at Arendtsville. Rev. Mr. Bowman, of Gettysburg, will deliver the charge to the congregation in the morning at 10 o'clock, and, in the afternoon at 2, Rev. Dr. George W. Nicely, of Hanover, president of the West Pennsylvania Synod, will deliver the charge to the new pastor.

Public receptions will be tendered the new pastor and his family during the week of December 9. On Wednesday evening the congregation of Flohr's church will act as host and, on the following evening, the Arendtsville church will be the scene of the reception.

Rev. H. E. Berkey, of Mummasburg, has been supply pastor of the Arendtsville Lutheran charge since Rev. Dr. D. T. Koser resigned his pastorate there May 1, after a continuous service there of thirty-six years. Rev. Dr. Koser, now retired, resides in Gettysburg. He was in Arendtsville today, however, assisting the new pastor and his family with their moving.

DOE BOWLS OVER LOCAL MAN IN DRIVE FOR BUCKS

B. W. Williams, of Gettysburg, was momentarily stunned, but received no other injury, when a doe caught in a drive for bucks near Lewis' Rocks, at the head waters of Tumbling Run, turned and bore down upon him before he was able to get out of its way.

The animal plunged headlong into Mr. Williams, bowling him over and knocking the wind out of him for a short time. Later, Mr. Williams resumed hunting, apparently none the worse for his experience. He is a member of the Brysonia Hunting Camp.

"Let's just imagine that one of you has invited me into your home, and that I'm sitting by the fire place just talking to you folks," said Eddie Guest, poet, humorist, philosopher, author of the "Just Folks" poems appearing every day on the editorial page of The Gettysburg Times, to an enthusiastic audience, including a number of Gettysburg and Adams county people, in the Technical High School Auditorium, Harrisburg, Tuesday evening.

Edgar A. Guest, who is small of stature, swarthy of complexion, and extremely shy and retiring in his manner until he really became acquainted with his audience, read his inimitable verse with such charm and appeal that he instantly captured it.

Sways His Audience

His poems ran the gauntlet of all human emotions, sometimes his audience was in gales of laughter, sometimes it openly wiped away a tear. His talk was an intimate one of love and sympathy and understanding, and his hearers will hereafter read his daily poems with a greater appreciation, because of his interpretation of them, and because they felt at the close of the evening that they personally know, "Mother" and "Bud" and the "Grandmas."

Edgar Guest lifted one to the heights when he gave his beautiful tender poems "Jim Reily Has Gone Home," "The Old Junk Box," "Are You Going Home for Christmas?" and "Heap-O-Livin." The

GILLETT WINS HIS OLD POST

Battle in House Ends With Re-election of Speaker of Last Session.

CONGRESS ORGANIZED

President Coolidge Expected to Deliver His Address Thursday; Democrats Voted Solid For Garrett.

(By Associated Press.)

Washington, Dec. 5—Frederick H. Gillett, of Massachusetts, was re-elected speaker of the House today when the Republican insurgents voted for him for the first time since a deadlock developed Monday.

The reelection of Mr. Gillett completed organization of the 68th Congress and paved the way for President Coolidge to deliver tomorrow his first message to a joint session of the House and Senate.

The insurgents decided to abandon their fight after they had been assured by Representative Longworth, of Ohio, the Republican leader, that opportunity would be afforded later to freely offer amendments to the House rules. From the start the insurgent group has maintained that its real fight was for a revision of the rules.

The break came on the first ballot today, the ninth taken for speaker since Monday noon. From the outset the insurgents had been casting 17 votes for Cooper, of Wisconsin, and 5 for Madden, of Illinois.

On the final ballot Gillett received 215 votes. Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, the Democratic candidate, had 197, and two voted for Representative Madden.

This gave Gillett a majority of seven votes.

The Democrats voted solidly for Garrett. The two who voted for Madden were James, of Michigan and Reid, of Illinois, both Republicans.

High Percentage of Slate and Bone Found in Pea Coal.

(By Associated Press)

Harrisburg, Dec. 5.—Tests of anthracite coal conducted at Pennsylvania mines during November in connection with an investigation by Secretary of Mines Joseph J. Walsh disclosed from 15 to 50 per cent of slate and bone, the Secretary reported today. Secretary Walsh's report covered tests of samples taken from different cars of coal loaded at three collieries in the first, twelfth and twenty-fourth mining districts.

The largest quantity of impurities was in a load of pea coal which Secretary Walsh's reports showed to contain 20 per cent of slate and 30 per cent of bone. The lowest percentage of impurities was a carload of stove coal in which there was 5 per cent of of slate and 10 per cent of bone.

States inspectors are trying to keep the coal to the standard set by the fuel distributor during the war. These range from 1 per cent slate and 1 per cent bone in broken coal to 10 per cent slate and 5 per cent bone in pea coal.

London, Dec. 5.—This is the last day of speech making and canvassing preparatory to the casting of the ballots in the most puzzling general election of recent years. Favored For Vice President; Democrats Adopt Platform Drafted by McAdoo Supporters.

Pierre, S. D., Dec. 5—President Calvin Coolidge last night was given the preference for the Republican presidenttial primary by the South Dakota Republican proposal convention, winning over Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, by a vote of 50,379 to 27,340, each ballot representing one-third of the Republican vote in each county. Later, on a rising vote, the endorsement was made unanimous. Coolidge and Johnson were the only names before the convention.

Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, was unanimously endorsed for Vice-President.

A tumult of applause and prolonged cheering greeted the announcement of the vote on the Presidential selection.

Johnson's Name Presented

Senator Johnson was placed in nomination by A. O. Ringsrud, of Union county. Mr. Ringsrud's remarks were few, merely calling the convention's attention to "that great man of the Far West, Hiram W. Johnson."

S. H. Elrod, of Clark county, submitted President Coolidge's name, characterizing the President as "the farmer boy who had done everything in his power for the farmer, largely the result of his practical experience in that profession." "This sunshine State," he said, "which four years ago first named President Coolidge as its Vice-Presidential candidate should show its gratitude for and confidence in his endeavors by indorsing him as its standard bearer in 1924."

Senator Capper was likened to President Coolidge as a "big brother of the farmers, who should make an excellent running mate for our esteemed Executive."

McMaster For U. S. Senate

Governor William H. McMaster won the majority Senatorial indorsement by a vote of 40,207 against 37,827 for Senator Thomas Sterling, incumbent.

Prior to the vote the Republican convention had approved a platform plank indorsing Governor McMaster's State administration and approving his gasoline price war.

The McMaster indorsement, after the Coolidge selection, came as a great surprise to political observers. McMaster, in declaring for the Senatorial race, had publicly indorsed the candidacy of Hiram Johnson and was generally regarded as the leader of the Johnson forces. While Senator Sterling had never declared his Presidential choice, he was regarded as a Coolidge supporter.

The Democratic proposal meeting adopted a platform framed by supporters of William G. McAdoo in the hope that it may be carried into the national arena by their candidate.

After the rout of the Ford Democrats by a vote of 27,434 to 17,661, on attempted amalgamation of the Democrats and Farmer-Labor conventions, the Democrats adopted the platform unanimously on every declaration.

"Reduce taxes, restore agricultural prosperity, preserve world peace," was approved as the summary of principle. Agricultural relief was designated as the most important problem before the nation.

MADMAN BLAMED FOR BOY'S WOUNDS

At Large in Hills Near Hancock, Armed Menace to Hunters, It Is Said.

Hagerstown, Dec. 5—Roaming somewhere in the mountains above Hancock, a madman, fully armed, is believed to threaten the safety of hunters and to have shot down Harry Munson, of Sideling Hill, a week ago while he was hunting turkeys near the Woodmont Rod and Gun Club preserve.

For the last week the authorities have been investigating various rumors, purporting to give the reason for the wounding of Munson, who has been lying at the point of death since he was shot.

Feud Theory Unproved

It was first intimated that the shooting was the outcome of a family feud, but failing to substantiate this rumor the police sought to prove that it was a fight between moonshiners, which resulted in the wounding of the boy.

Now the madman theory seems the most plausible one, according to the statement given by Munson.

Munson said he was hunting with a companion near the club preserve when a strange man, with staring eyes, came suddenly upon them from a thick growth of underbrush and in a shrill voice screamed at them "Beware!"

Shot Follows Disappearance

Almost as quickly as he came the stranger disappeared. A moment later a shot sounded and Munson fell, with the charge from a shotgun in his back and hips.

Munson says he knows of no enemies, and the staring eyes and high-pitched voice of the man who he thinks attacked him led him to believe that a madman is at large in the mountain.

12-MILE TREATY TEXT RECEIVED

Hughes Convinced, By Hurried Study, Minor Differences Can Be Settled.

REGARDED AS GOOD BAR

Hits at Smuggling; This and Canadian Pact Would End Rum Trade With Britain, is Belief.

Washington, Dec. 5.—Secretary of State Hughes has received the text of the 12-mile treaty from the British Foreign Office and is convinced, from a hurried study of it, that any minor differences over its terms may be ironed out by negotiation.

If this treaty proves acceptable to the Administration and to the Senate, and if the Canadian agreement, just arrived at with the Ottawa Ministry, becomes operative, the business of rum smuggling into the United States on a large scale virtually will be destroyed, Government officials insist.

Plans to Prevent Smuggling

To be equipped to enforce the Volstead act more effectively, under the terms of these international agreements, the Administration proposes to expend about $20,000,000 for additional Coast Guard vessels, large and small, and from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000 a year to maintain the anti-rum fleet at sea and the field forces ashore.

For nearly a month the State Department has awaited the text of the so-called 12-mile treaty, originally submitted in the form of a memorandum to the British Foreign Office three months ago. At first the British were inclined to reject the American proposal, even with the reciprocal provisions it contained.

When Sentiment Changed

But when the Imperial Council, composed of Prime Ministers of the British dominions, met in London, a decided change of sentiment toward the treaty became evident, even here. For two weeks unofficial reports have come from the British capital that the London Government now was disposed to make terms with America.

A week ago memorandum was handed Secretary Hughes by the British Charge, Mr. Chilton, which strengthened the conviction that an agreement was about to be reached. Now Mr. Chilton has laid before the department the text of the treaty, as rewritten by the British. Although no official comment was forthcoming, the understanding around the State Department Tuesday afternoon was that Secretary Hughes had found nothing upon which serious disagreement might arise.

Changes May Be Made

The feeling is that after further examination some suggestions may be made regarding minor changes and that within a week or 10 days final agreement be reached, after which the treaty will be forwarded to the Senate for ratification. Whether its terms will be made public before the pact is sent to the Senate has not been determined.

Under the terms of the treaty, as drafted first by Secretary Hughes, this Government was permitted to search and seize vessels suspected of carrying liquor destined for the United States as far out at sea as 12 miles. The effect was to extend the territorial waters of the United States from three to 12 miles, for the sole purpose of prohibition enforcement and to prevent smuggling.

At the same time this Government, as a matter of reciprocity, proposed to admit to American ports British passenger ships having aboard ship's liquor stores, provided these stores were sealed while within American jurisdiction, and to permit sealed cargoes of liquor aboard British ships destined for foreign ports to enter American waters.

ONE-WAY BRIDGE TO BE ABOLISHED

the slope often find that brakes are useless.

Suit Is Now Pending

At present, suit for $10,000 damages is pending in the Adams county court between two motorists because it is alleged the driver of a car descending the hill west of the one-way bridge on a rainy day, was unable to stop his machine as it slipped toward the entrance to the bridge and crashed into another machine.

Plans and specifications for the proposed 24-foot roadway span over Swift Run to replace the present structure are on file at the office of the county commissioners. An ornamental, concrete and steel bridge is specified.

Each bidder must accompany his proposal with a certified check in amount not less than 10 per cent of the bid, made payable to the commissioners, as a guarantee of good faith to protect the county from any loss by failure to comply with the terms of the proposal.

Work of repairing the bridge will begin next spring as soon as weather permits, it is understood.

Diamonds of Malopo

by

VICTOR ROUSSEAU

COPYRIGHT BY W. G. CHAPMAN

"You asked me to go away, and I did so. I thought you would allow me—"

"What is it that you want?" asked Sheila.

"I want to help you. I know that you are friendless here, that you are doing work which is unsuited to you. I know that you were not born for this sort of life. I want to be your friend, and your father's."

"A hundred men have said that to me since I came to Malopo," answered the girl bitterly.

"I mean it."

"You mean that you are quixotic enough to wish to do a kindness without any return. No, Mr. Garrett. And I want you to forget that you ever met me."

She turned again and began walking quickly along the dark street, but Winton kept at her side.

"But you are unreasonable," he cried. "Miss Seaton, surely you are not so rich in friendships that you can reject one which is disinterested."

"Mr. Garrett," she answered, stopping once more and looking him squarely in the face, "I am not so friendless as you think. And I do not accept friends out of pity. If you are a gentleman, you will not speak to me again, not notice me, in the Continental, or anywhere. Good night; and let this be good-by."

He watched her until her figure was lost in the murky mazes of the foul streets that stretched toward the desert. His heart sank. There was nothing more that he could do, then. He hated Malopo now; he wished he had never come.

Looking back toward the single electric light that stood at the corner of the market square, he fancied that he perceived the figure of the little man who had talked with him upon the stoep of the hotel. He was standing with another, pointing after him.

Winton strode away. He had entirely forgotten Burns' warning; and if he had remembered it would not have made any difference. He wanted to get out toward the desert again, to be alone.

Old clothes shops, which thrived upon the wages of the native gangs brought to work in the compounds, booths of Greek, Syrian, and Indian peddlers, alternating with vacant lots, lined the sandy track. There were mean little alleys that extended at right angles, terminating in shadows. The moonlight, straggling fitfully through a bank of clouds, something rarely seen in the dry season, disclosed the desert beyond.

Near the outskirts of the town was a new structure consisting of about a score of brick houses of uniform height and a single story each, joined to form two sides of a square. On the third side was another street, with vacant lots fronting it; on the fourth barbed wire, and the desert beyond. In the center was a well. These houses, which were of the crudest construction, contained apparently but two rooms apiece, and the aspect of the whole construction was dismal beyond imagination. Only two or three seemed to be inhabited, and this fact was to be learned by the tin cans and other refuse that had been thrown out from the doors.

Winton turned from the place in disgust and made his way toward the end of the street, looking upon the desert. Then he perceived two men close behind him. Since the little man was not one of them, however, he thought little of the matter, and, as they came quickly toward him, he stepped aside to let them take the harder center of the road.

When they were almost abreast of him they separated, with the evident intention of passing on either side. For the first time Winton scented mischief. He put his hand to his pocket, where lay Ned Burns' revolver. He had half drawn it when it was dashed to the ground, and the two leaped at him.

BROWNIES

2 sqs. chocolate — 1/2 c. flour
1/2 c. butter — 1 ts. Davis Baking Powder
2 eggs — 1 ts. vanilla
1 c. sugar — 1 c. broken nut meats

Melt together the chocolate and butter. Beat together the eggs, sugar and flour sifted with the baking powder. Add the melted mixture, vanilla and nuts. Pour on buttered paper in shallow pan 1/4 inch thickness and bake in moderate oven 30 minutes. Turn from pan; remove paper and cut into bars while hot. This makes a delicious confection either hot or cold and gives a higher food value than candy and can be eaten with less danger of disturbing the system.

DISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH

Many years ago, when what is now Oklahoma was known as the Indian Territory, there came from somewhere out of the East to Muskegee, then not much more than a mere trading outpost, a stranger. His name was Alexander Sondheimer. Something about that name might suggest that the holder of it was a Jew. This quite natural supposition has proved to be correct.

Mr. Sondheimer seemed to be possessed of a fair share of that business sense and capacity for enterprise which is generally credited to the sons of Abraham. So, Mr. Sondheimer set out to make the best of such opportunities for the accumulation of wealth that the then Indian Territory offered. He became a commission merchant and dealt in hides, pecans, wool, and in most anything that could be turned into profit. Soon he had men traveling all over the territory buying up the products of the great reservations.

He prospered, and felt that he was entitled to a trip to France. While there he was killed in an automobile accident and the body was returned to rest in the community in which he had spent the best productive years of his life and where he had made his money.

So much for the preliminaries, and they have been duplicated so far often by men of all races and nationalities everywhere. It was only when Mr. Sondheimer's will was probated that the good people of Muskegee really sat up and began to take notice. It is estimated the Sondheimer possessions will yield not less than $500,000. The bulk of it went to a local bank to be held in trust for 25 years and is then to be distributed as follows:

"To the Y. M. C. A. of Muskegee, 30 per cent, or aproximately $150,000.

"To the First Presbyterian church of Muskegee, 10 per cent, or approximately $50,000.

"To the Y. W. C. A. of Muskegee, 30 per cent, or aproximately $150,000.

"To the United Charities, 10 per cent, or approximately $50,000, one-half of which is to be devoted to the day nursery and one-half to the old folks' home.

"To the Boy Scouts of Muskegee, 10 per cent, or approximately $50,000.

"To the Beth Ahaba Jewish congregation of Muskegee, 10 per cent, or approximately $50,000."

Mr. Sondheimer was not a native of America. He came here as an immigrant, attracted by the fame of this country as the Land of Opportunity He found it such. More than that, he identified himself with the land of his adoption, and he has left such "footprints on the sands of time" that any native-born American of any race, nationality, religion or creed would only honor himself by following.

MOTHER CARES

Never a button to sew,
Never a stocking to mend,
Free to come and to go
From dawn to the long day's end;
Never a hurt to dread
Whenever they're out of sight,
Never a little bed
Drawn up at your own at night.

Never a brow to feel,
Searching a fever sign,
Never a hurt to heal,
Never a shoe to shine,
Never a dress to make—
Only yourself to please—
Surely your heart must ache
Missing such cares as these.

Oh, there is much to do,
And heavy the weight of care
Toiling the long day through,
And oh! there is much to bear.
Anguish and grief and tears,
Dread of the bitterest blow
Are part of a mother's years,
And yet they are sweet to know.

Better the hurt and pain,
Better to work and sew,
To have and to lose again
Than never their love to know.
There is calm at the long day's end,
And sweet is a mother's care,
So give me the dress to mend,
And give me the pain to bear.

Origin of the Ghetto.

The ghetto was the Jewish quarter of an Italian city. Pope Paul IV, in 1556 established the ghetto of Rome, and it existed until 1885, when it was removed to make way for the new embankment of the Tiber. The Jews were at one time closely confined to that section of the city and were not allowed outside the limits unless distinguished from the Christians by wearing, the men a yellow hat and the women a veil of the same color. The ghetto was inclosed by a wall and the gates thereto were locked at night.

That Meriden Game Again

Editor, Gettysburg Times,
Gettysburg, Pa.

I am of the opinion that the article in the issue of The Times of November 21 may create a wrong impression if it is not corrected.

The Gettysburg-Meriden game was not canceled due to the fact that Gettysburg High School could not guarantee a return game, but because a New Hampshire team accepted our challenge before final arrangements could be made with Gettysburg. We had issued a challenge to any New England team and it occurred to us that if we substituted Gettysburg for this team that the public in general would think that we were not sincere in our challenge.

You will see from the above that the game was not canceled in view of the failure of Gettysburg guaranteeing us a return game next year.

Very truly yours,
PAUL D. MILLER,
Principal.

WORN NERVES

Nervous troubles, with backache, dizzy spells, queer pains and irregular kidneys, give reason to suspect kidney weakness and to try the remedy that has helped your neighbors.

Ask your neighbor!

Mrs. Chas. Hunter, 127 W. High St., Gettysburg, says: "I was never bothered in a serious way with kidney trouble, but a number of years ago my kidneys weren't in proper condition. Sharp pains darted through my back and this trouble made housework very hard. My back ached most of the time, but the pains were worse in the morning, directly after getting up. My troubles were many and my sight was blurred by specks. I felt tired and was inclined to be nervous. My kidneys acted irregularly. I purchased Doan's Pills at the People's Drug Store, and two boxes drove all these signs of kidney complaint from me."

IN MEMORIAM

In sad but loving remembrance of our dear mother, Mrs. Ellen Slaybaugh, who departed this life one year ago today, December 5, 1922.

December days again are here,
The saddest of the year,
The day that our mother died,
The pride we hold so dear.
We feel so sad and lonely,
When her voice we do not hear,
For no words were ever sweeter
Than the words of mother dear.

Mrs. K. F. Kline.

Loosens a Stopper.

To loosen a glass stopper in a bottle put one or two drops of sweet oil around the stopper and place it a little distance from the fire. When the bottle is quite warm strike the stopper with a stick with a cloth wrapped tightly around it, first on one side and then on the other. This will loosen even the most obstinate stopper.

For the "Handy Man Around the House"

It's man's nature to be a "handy man around the house"—If only he had the right tools.

At least that's their ready excuse.

This Christmas make him a present of a chest of tools—he will enjoy working with them, and incidentally inspire him to do the thousand and one odd jobs which every good wife always has ready for her husband's off days.

And as a little hint for husbands—we have a wonderfully complete line of cultery articles which will make kitchen work a pleasure.

It never has been our policy to mark up our merchandise to such a percentage that would prohibit quick and quantitative buying. But we tag it at such low attractive prices that our merchandise moves quickly. Thereby the public is protected from stock accumulations and old styles.

With an entire new stock we offer these wonders:

Shirts that cannot fade,
Ties of the newest patterns--boxed,
Stockings of all descriptions,
Hats and caps of the newest styles,
Shoes and oxfords of the latest styles—guaranteed.

The best overcoats at the least price,

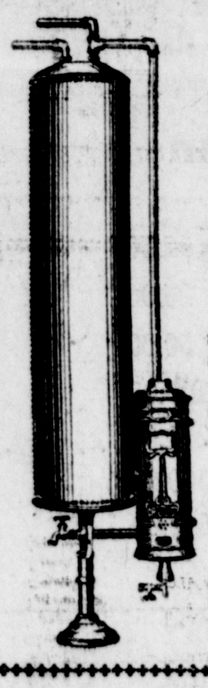
WHERE QUALITY COUNTS
On the Square Since 1902



Sir. How's Your Disposition

It depends largely on whether you had any hot water in the bathroom this morning. Also whether you expect to find any this evening.

But if you had a gas water heater at home,there would be no uncertainty. This appliance is always ready for you a cup full or a tub full.

$5.00 down and a dollar a week for a tank heater. Why be without it any longer?

Potatoes boiled rapidly soon break to pieces, cooked slowly they become soggy; moderate boiling produces best results.
